DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamamuro et al (US 4,589,071).

Yamamuro et al disclose a shift control comprising: shift control means (300) for controlling the shift actuator (110); speed detecting means (302) for detecting a speed of the vehicle; downshift detecting means for detecting a downshift of the belt-type continuously variable transmission (col. 17 lines 4-27), and idle state detecting means for detecting an idle state of the engine (col. 22 lines 26-66), wherein when a speed detected by the speed detecting means is less than a first predetermined speed, the downshift detecting means detects the downshift, and the idle state detecting means does not detect the idle state of the engine, the shift control means limits an operating speed of the shift actuator (col. 22 line 67 – col. 23 line 64).

Re claim 2, an intermediate target gear ratio is set between the actual target gear ratio and the target gear ratio, the intermediate target gear ratio being gradually brought close to the target gear ratio, the shift control means controls the shift actuator so that the actual gear ratio reaches the intermediate target gear ratio, and the downshift detecting means detects the downshift when there is a difference more than a predetermined value between the intermediate target gear ratio and the actual gear ratio (col. 25 lines 1-19).

Re claim 3, the shift control means lowers an operating speed of the shift actuator when a speed detected by the speed detecting means is less than an upshift determination vehicle speed (col. 10 line 30 – col. 11 line 14).

Re claim 4, gear ratio comparing means for comparing the actual gear ratio and the target gear ratio (col. 17 line 51 – col. 20 line 45), wherein when the speed detected by the speed detecting means is equal to or more than the second predetermined speed, the downshift detecting means detects a finish of the downshift, and the gear ratio comparing means determines that the actual gear ratio is closer to a Lo side relative to the target gear ratio, the shift control means finishes limitation of the operating speed of the shift actuator (col. 18 line 54 – col. 20 line 39).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Further comments regarding the applicant's remarks are deemed appropriate. The applicant argues the Yamamuro reference fails to meet the limitations of the claims because it fails to disclose the shift controls means. Yamamuro teaches a shift control means (300). It is also that the Yamamuro fails to teach limiting the shift-actuator operating speed to prevent slippage of the V-belt. Although Yamamuro does not teach preventing slippage of the V-belt, the device of Yamamuro is capable of performing the function.

The applicant's remarks have accorded due consideration, however they are not deemed fully persuasive.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
